

Morgan Doyle, Director of Operations, Can You Hear Me?

Morgan Doyle is currently the operations manager for Can You Hear Me? and also serves on the non-profit's board of directors. Doyle oversees CYHM?'s budgeting, funding, planning and event operations. She was first introduced to CYHM? during the 2016 Vans Warped Tour, where she learned about the organization's mission to raise awareness and help individuals struggling with issues such as mental health, addiction and bullying.

Doyle has previously managed event logistics and touring for other non-profit organizations, including the Seattle, WA based Skully Serves. She has also held operations positions with major music festival names, including Lollapalooza, Electric Daisy Carnival and Coachella.

Since beginning her role at CYHM? in 2017, Doyle has been inspired by the stories of teens and young adults who have been positively impacted by CYHM?'s nationwide community and programs. Her passion for mental health and wellness has sparked her dedication to connecting teens and young adults to the CYHM? movement.

She hopes that organizations such as CYHM? will help rewrite the narrative surrounding mental health and increase awareness for the need of affordable treatment options. Doyle's plans for the future of CYHM? include growing the non-profit's volunteer network and further developing partnerships within the music industry to help spread CYHM's message.
